

CHILDREN NEED FAMILIES

There are many reasons why children have to be cared for away from their own families. There may be a family crisis, parents who are unable to cope or adolescent problems. Many children who are looked after on a temporary basis will eventually return home.

In some cases parents have serious problems, and may never be able to care for their child, and a permanent substitute family will be needed.

In all of these circumstances children need mature people, with the patience and common sense to help them understand their situation, and overcome their difficulties.

We need foster families for all ages of children but especially for school age children, brothers and sisters who need to stay together, and teenagers. Allowances are paid, and support and training is provided.
