

The Wychwoods Local History Society

At the Society's February meeting, Joe Peeler of the Burford Society gave a brief history of the rises and falls of Burford's fortunes. This was followed by a more detailed account of some of the citizens of the 16th and 17th centuries when Burford was an important market and coaching town. Some of these citizens had both national and local influence with their connections to the Royal Court and with the wealthier families of this area.
