

One Week In September

We dropped the car and had to walk,
But it gave us chance to stop and talk,
The roads were still, the air was light,
The 361 was silent all night

We couldn't find milk, potatoes or bread
So we had pancakes, and honey, for breakfast instead
The big stores were asking for £2 a litre
So we shopped at the local.... and some things were cheaper!

Craig won seventy grand on a TV game show
Then gave it away to a lady called Jo,
The Olympic flame passed from lady to lady,
The PM said '24 hours' then said 'well maybe...'

The Wychwoods were calmer – slowed down a pace,
For one week in September a very nice place,
Now the car-parks are full, the Street's a race track
The crisis is over-but we'd like it back!
