SUMMER DAZE

Lying in the garden, thoughts are flying free,
Watching all the aeroplanes, Emily and me.
Wonder where they're going, power in their motion,
To a tropic Island in the middle of the ocean?
Sun and sand, palms and reefs in a turquoise sea,
We would like to be there, Emily and me.

Hear the crickets chirrup as we while away the hours,
See the vivid colours of the tropic, rainwashed flowers.
Breathing in the atmospheric, floral scented air,
Happy smiling faces that the people always wear
Breakfast on the terrace, in the morning sun,
Dinner in a restaurant when the day is done.

Native ladies swaying to the rhythm of the drum,
Simpler, slower pace of life, the reason why we come.
Lazing on a sandy beach or swimming in the sea,
Perhaps one day we'll go there, Emily and me.
