Christmas holidays at last! They are awesome but I can't wait to see all my mates again. I will get my exam results soon. That will be scary but at least it is not the real thing! They are in the summer. We leave school early (sometime in May) for study leave. Until then life at school will be pretty normal, the first bus journey to school will be fabulous, everyone catching up on gossip and stuff from what everyone did in the holidays, then catching up with everyone else when we get to school. It will be netball for PE next term which should be good, it was hockey last term, house matches were good but we were fourth!

The school performance of Dracula was fantastic; everyone worked really hard, making it a huge success. We have a new head teacher when we get back, I hope she is as cool as Mr Sanders; he was a great head who everyone loved and will miss.

Looking ahead though, there is the ski trip coming up in February half-term for Years ten, eleven, twelve and thirteen.
