

The Wychwoods Day Centre Guitar Group Strikes a Chord

Around 20 members of Wychwoods' Day Centre were treated to an afternoon of musical entertainment when they were visited by 12 young guitarists from the Corinium Players Guitar Ensemble on Thursday 30th August.

chatted over refreshments. Our photograph below shows Day Centre Coordinator Katherine Gidman introducing 10

10 Meets 101!

Ranging in age from 10 to 17 years and hailing from all four corners of the Cotswolds (including the Wychwoods), the children performed a range of foot-tapping favourites including Rock Around the Clock, Apache and Tea for Two as well as a selection of Spanish and Latin-influenced pieces.

Following the concert, the young guitarists, members and staff mingled and year-old Luke Field, the youngest performer, to the Centre's most senior member, Joan Keen, who has recently celebrated her 101st birthday!

A registered Charity, the Corinium Players Guitar Ensemble was established in Cirencester by Sandra Dukes to create an opportunity for classical guitarists of primary school age upwards, to develop their musical skills and perform as an ensemble. Comprising some 50 players, the Ensemble is divided into three separate groups: Juniors, Intermediates and Seniors, who also combine into a unique Guitar Orchestra.

The Corinium Players at Milton

For those of you who enjoy classical guitar music, the Corinium Players are planning a concert at St Simon and St Jude's Church, Milton on Saturday 22nd June at 7:30pm to raise funds to attend the World Youth Guitar Festival in August 2013. Visit the group's website at www.coriniumplayers.com to listen to some of their music and find out what they have planned.

Liz Williamson. Secretary
The Corinium Players Guitar Ensemble